Dear

Bliss of the day greetings to you, kindly accept my complete apology for this unexpected mail. I hope to gain your trust to enable us accomplish this project as partners. Therefore, I seek your consent to introduce myself. My name is Mr Philip Nazri, I am the Group Financial Manager of a leading investment bank in Singapore. I came to England for a business conference and used this opportunity to send this letter to you. I got acquainted with your contact through Switzerland ancestral portfolio in search for decent individuals with similar last name to our deceased client, who was an Oil tycoon. We lost our client in the Malaysian Airline MH370 which disappeared. However, to my extensive research he neither had a wife nor children.

Before the awful demise of Mr [redacted] e, he had the sum of $72,830,000.00 USD under our management. Consequent to his death there have been no next of kin to this funds because he died intestate (without apparent heir to this deposit). Such fortune is bestowed to the government if no individual turns up for claims within specific period of time. Prior to the deadline, which is approaching, I was officially shortlisted to provide an eligible heir due to my modest relationship with our deceased client. However, numerous efforts to locate his immediate family or associate has suffered unending setbacks and situation like this when not a single person of the deceased will ever come forward for claims often creates an avenue for individuals that possess controllable interest in the financial institution to siphon the funds for personal motive.

Contrary to this imminent circumstance by virtue of my position in this development, my purpose of this letter is to shortlist you as the only beneficiary of the funds because I have exclusive access to information's that will permit my proposal. My solicitor will prepare documents to facilitate this proposal within the context of all financial legal proceedings without any breach of the law. This exceptional opportunity arises once in the banking sector virtually in a lifetime and your co-operation is very important.

Please don't betray my confidence, it may put my esteem career at risk in the financial sector, which I have nurtured an upright career for decades perhaps awaiting a ceremonious resignation when this project is concluded. It is pertinent for me to be very careful but my instinct strongly considers you as a decent and trustworthy individual who can collaborate with me in a suitable and confidential method. Your mere obligation is to be at the receiving end as the beneficiary of the funds.

If you are interested in this proposal, thus maintain absolute confidentiality, as secrecy is the key to success. Contact me via my private email and the process will commence immediately, and for your information this is 100% legal and risk free. On receipt of your response further insight will be available to you.

The process outlined to accomplish this proposal doesn't require your presence in Singapore, as you will be properly guided on how the money will be securely transferred without hitch on both sides. Thank you as I cordially await your prompt response via email.
